ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This is the nineteenth of a series of new-style county histories which will include all of the 102 counties of Illinois, and, ultimately, all of the 3,103 counties of the United States. The project, specializing in aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads and with brief historical narratives added, is known as the American Aerial County History Series.

IIn the preparation of this work on Knox County, Illinois, the author and publisher hereby acknowledge their gratitude, for advice and assistance generously given them, to Mr. Joseph C. Wolf and Mrs. Ellen Chase of the Newberry Library, Chicago; to Mr. Herbert H. Hewitt, Mrs. Roberta Sutton and Miss Winifred Baum, all of the Chicago Public Library, Chicago; and to various librarians, public officials, business executives and private citizens of the city of Galesburg and the county of Knox, Illinois. The author also wishes to express special acknowledgement to his wife, Marion Neville Drury, for research, editorial and proof reading assistance.

Grateful appreciation is also shown here to officials of the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Department of Commerce and to officials of the Department of Public Works & Planning of the State of Illinois (in particular to those in charge of that department's Bureau of Research and Planning of the Highway Department), for permission ot use the Knox County maps included in this book.

STORY OF KNOX COUNTY

About equally productive as an agricultural and industrial area, Knox County, located in the vast, corn-growing region of west central Illinois, is unique for the numerous literary, inventive, educational, religious and cultural leaders who were widely influential in its past history and who contributed, in varying degrees, to the enrichment of American life.

If Knox County produced Carl Sandburg, now acclaimed as a great American author and poet, it also nurtured the Ferrises, one of whom invented the Ferris Wheel and another of whom created that popular American edible, popcorn. If the county provided a setting for the work of the Reverend George W. Gale, pioneer Midwest religious leader and founder of both Galesburg city and Knox College, it also served as a proving ground for the steel, self-scouring plow invented by one of its early settlers, Harvey H. May.

About the time that the first railroad came to Galesburg and thus opened the way for the later construction there of the great Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad shops, there existed in that same city two pioneer colleges which were outstanding seats of learning at that period. One of these was Knox College, still in existence, and the other was Lombard College.

In the years since then, Knox College has had an unusual number of students who went out into the world and became celebrated American authors. One of these, as we have seen, is Carl Sandburg, poet, ballad singer, and author of a monumental, six-volume biography of an immortal American who once walked the streets of Galesburg — Abraham Lincoln.

Another one-time Knox student is Earnest Elmo Calkins, who achieved top success in both advertising and literature and whose novel They Broke the Prairie is a vivid and realistic portrayal of pioneer life in Knox County. It was still another former Knox student, George Fitch, who, in his humorous " Old Siwash " stories in the Saturday Evening Post, not only based these popular tales on Knox campus life but created a new catchword for freshwater colleges in America. One more Knox undergraduate was the late Don Marquis, author playwright, and newspaper columnist.

Before Galesburg's other pioneer college, Lombard, was absorbed by Knox, it numbered among its students Eugene Field, now known in American literature as " the Children's Poet. " At a later period Lombard College played its share in the education of Quincy Wright, now professor of international law at the University of Chicago and author of A Study of War and other authoritative works on today's world problems.

Of the several Illinois counties in which Lincoln and Douglas staged their series of seven Great Debates during the senatorial campaign of 1858, only Knox County retains a building in which one of those debates was held. This is Old Main, most ancient of the edifices on the campus of Knox College at Galesburg. It was here that Lincoln and Douglas engaged in the fifth of their series of historic debates, the event taking place in the afternoon of October 7, 1858.

IN THE BEGINNING

At one time, practically half of what is now the state of Illinois was a single county called Knox, so-named after General Henry Knox of the Revolutionary War. But at that early period, which was after the Northwest Territory was organized in 1790, this Knox County included not only half of Illinois but all of what later became Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin. When Indiana Territory was organized in 1800, however, this original, vast Knox County was greatly reduced in size and eventually it became an ordinary-sized county in Indiana, enclosing the historic old French town of Vincennes.

By the time Illinois Territory was set up in 1809, no association with the earlier Knox County remained in the new territory. Thus it may be seen that the Knox County in Illinois today was an entirely new county, not coming into existence until 1825. It, also, was named after General Henry Knox. When Illinois Territory was established, it consisted of only two counties, Randolph and St. Clair, and our present Knox County lay in the latter.

Then, in 1812, St. Clair was greatly reduced in size and a newly-created county, Madison, included the Knox County of today, Here it remained until 1821 when Pike County was proclaimed; a huge county that embraced the future site of Knox. Then came the year 1823 when Pike was cut in half and Fulton County organized; now future Knox was in Fulton. And here it remained until Knox County came into being in 1825.

MILITARY TRACT

Before Knox County was formed, and even before Illinois was admitted to statehood, the United States government set aside a vast region (two million acres) of wilderness land in Illinois Territory for veterans of the War of 1812. This was called the Military Tract. It lay between the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and extended upward as far as a line drawn between Rock Island and Joliet.

As may be readily seen, future Knox County lay in the north portion of the Military Tract. Any veteran of the War of 1812 could have a free quarter-section of land(160 acres) here if he wanted it. But there were not many who accepted the offer to settle in the tract; it seems the hardships of frontier life did not appeal to them. In consequence, most of the ex-soldiers sold their " prairie quarter " for $100 or even less, while others traded theirs for a horse, a cow or a watch.

What happened afterwards was that many of the first settlers of this region had great difficulty in ascertaining the legal status of the land they had staked out; they often did not know if their claim was " Congress Land, " which they were entitled to pre-empt, or " Patent Land, " which belonged to some veteran. Quite a few of the veterans sold their tracts to Eastern " land sharks. " Cases were common where a " land shark " would turn up as owner and demand an exorbitant price for the land on which a settler had built his cabin home and laid out a farm.

KNOX COUNTY CREATED

Although Knox was one of eight new counties created by the Illinois state legislature at Vandalia (then the capital of the state) on January 13, 1825, the enabling act having been signed by Governor Edward Coles, it did not have a formal county government until 1830. During this interval it was a dependency of its parent county, Fulton, and the first settlers of Knox had to carry on their county business at Fulton's county seat, Lewistown.

By 1830, however, there were enough legal residents, 350, in Knox County to meet the requirements of formal county organization. On demand of these early settlers, Circuit Judge Richard M. Young, sitting at Lewistown, issued an order calling for formal organization of Knox County and another order calling for an election of county officers. This election was held on July 3, 1830.

FIRST SETTLERS

The first settlers of Knox County, as with many other new Illinois counties of the period, were emigrants from the South. The trend of population then was from the south to the north; the movement of newcomers form New England and New York State into northern Illinois had not yet started. Until just after the close of the Black Hawk War of 1832 most homeseekers who came into Knox county were from Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia.

On their arrival in Knox County, the earliest of these homeseekers settled in a wooded region that now is Henderson Township, just north of where Galesburg was later platted. With a plentiful supply of logs at hand, they soon had a settlement of cabins here that came to be known as Log City. It included not only homes but several stores and taverns. Later, the settlement was called Henderson Grove.

" The first settlement of the county was made in Henderson Grove in February, 1828, " wrote J. L. Dewey in Dewey's County Directory, published at Galesburg in 1868. " Messrs. Daniel and Alexander Robertson, Riggs Pennington, Stephen Osborn, Robert and Eaton Nance, The Rev. Jacob Gum and his sons (John B., James and Zephaniah), Jane Vaughn, Benjamin Coy, Alexander Franks, Robert Greenwell, Thomas Sheldon and Nicholas Voiles . . . all of these were the first heads of families who settled in Knox County. The unmarried emigrants who did not 'keep house' were Jesse D. Gum, Matthew D. Coy, Helen Hilton, Andrew Osborn, Thomas McKee, Alexander Osborne and James Reynolds.

" In July, 1829, the first marriage ceremonies were performed by Philip Hash, a justice of the peace, the couples being Fielden Hash and Miss Elizabeth Razor and Alexander Osborne and Miss Hendricks. The happy parties were compelled to obtain the licenses from Lewistown in Fulton County, and all were married upon the same day. In January, 1829, the first white child was born, the offspring of Zephaniah Gum. and June Gum. On the 9th of January, 1829, the first death occurred, that of a young man named Philip Nance, aged 17 years . . . His friends were compelled to use the lumber of an old wagon-box in the construction of a rude coffin for the remains. "

GENERAL HENRY KNOX

As has already been noted, Knox County was named after General Henry Knox of the Revolutionary War. A native of Boston, Massachusetts, where he was born in 1750, Henry Knox early took an interest in military tactics and read many books on the subject. At the outbreak of the American Revolution he fought at Bunker Hill and later planned an artillery encirclement of Boston which forced the British to evacuate that city.

For this service, he won the confidence of General

Washington and was made a brigadier-general and placed in charge of the artillery of the Continental Army. Thereafter, General Knox's cannons played important parts in the battles of Princeton, Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth and Yorktown. Later he was placed in command at West Point and served as President Washington's first Secretary of War. He was also founder of the Society of the Cincinnati, an organization of ex-army officers. General Knox died in 1806.

COUNTY ORGANIZATION

In History of Knox County, Illinois published by Chas. C. Chapman & Company in 1878, we find these words: " In the spring of 1830, two years after the first white man had located in the county of Knox, it was thought there was a sufficient number of inhabitants to justify an organization. Accordingly a public meeting was held at the store of Samuel S. White, in Henderson township May 15, 1830. This store stood near the residence of John B. Gum, and in the early days was known as a tavern, but at present such a place would commonly be known as a saloon. The building was a one-story log cabin, about 16 feet square, and contained but one room.

" Riggs Pennington was chosen chairman and John G. Sanburn, secretary. The original minutes of the meeting are still extant, and in the possession of Mr. F. G. Sanburn of Knoxville, who kindly loaned them to us. Among the pioneers present at this meeting looking foward to the organization of one of the wealthiest most beautiful counties of the state, were Riggs Pennington, John G. Sanburn, Squire Philip Hash, Stephen Osborn, Dr. Charles Hansford, Henry Bell, the Rev. Jacob Gum, Nicholas Voiles and John B. Gum.

" Dr. Hansford, Riggs Pennington and John G. Sanburn were appointed to draft a petition addressed to the Honorable Richard M. Young, Judge of the Fifth Judicial District, praying for the organization of the county. Another committee was appointed to present this petition to the Judge and address him in the interests of the organization. This committee was composed of Pennington, Hash, Hansford, and Osborn. These gentlemen shortly afterwards proceeded to Lewistown, Fulton County; and while the circuit court was in session, laid their petition before the Judge, who, believing the county contained 350 inhabitants, the number required by law, and that the majority desired the organization, did, on the 10th day of June, declare, by virtue of the power invested in him, the said county of Knox to be organized and entitled to the same rights and privileges as the other counties in the state.

" This step was soon supplemented by another of equal importance; for there must necessarily be official heads to conduct the public affairs of the newly organized community. Accordingly, Judge Young issued an order for an election for the purpose of choosing three commissioners. This election was held on the 3rd day in July, 1830, being the first election ever held in Knox County. Riggs Pennington, Philip Hash, and Dr. Charles Hansford were elected county commissioners without opposition. "

KNOXVILLE BECOMES FIRST COUNTY SEAT

A few days after that first election, the new county Commissioner's Court (at that time a county's ruling body was called a " court " instead of a " board ") held a special session in the log cabin home of John B. Gum at Henderson Grove. The new commissioners were sworn in by Stephen, Osborn, sheriff-elect, and then the court was declared duly organized for the transaction of business.

In addition to appointing John G. Sanburn as county clerk and John B. Gum as county treasurer (who had to give bond in the amount of $500), the new court ordered that John B. Gum's home should serve as a temporary seat of justice for Knox County. A year later, it was decided to locate a permanent county seat at a new town to be platted just southeast of the site of future Galesburg and to be called " Henderson. "

This town was duly surveyed and laid out by Parnach Owen, first Knox County surveyor. At a public sale ,lots in the new town of Henderson sold at prices ranging from $2.00 to $60.00. A total of twenty-five lots were sold for $1,256. Later in that same year (1831) there was completed at Henderson the county's first permanent courthouse, and three years later the county had its first jail at the same place.

In 1832, however, the name of the county seat town was changed to Knoxville. The reason for this change was that Henderson became confused with Henderson Grove, the settlement established by the county's first residents. With its new name, Knoxville remained the seat of Knox County for the next forty-one years, or until 1873 when Galesburg became county seat.

GALESBURG COLONY

After the close of the Black Hawk War of 1832, a conflict which brought about the permanent removal of Indians from Illinois, there began a inrush of Easterners into the Prairie State, most of whom settled in the upper part of the commonwealth. Although this movement actually started with the opening of the Erie Canal in 1825, it was greatly accelerated when the Indian menace was ended in Illinois.

Among the numerous colonization societies formed in Eastern states to establish model towns in the new prairie country of Illinois, one of the most successful was that organized by the Reverend George Washington Gale, a gifted Presbyterian minister of Oneida County, New York. He not only platted the town of Galesburg, which today is a leading Illinois agricultural and manufacturing center, but he founded Knox College, one of the earliest of American manual labor colleges.

It was in 1835 that the reverend Mr. Gale conceived the idea of a religious community on the western frontier, one that would center on a manual labor college. He felt that such a community would bring both religion and education to a region urgently in need of both. In time he organized a colonization society at Whitesboro, in Oneida County, New York, and raised a fund of $20,000 among some fifty families of the Mohawk Valley.

An exploring committee sent out by the society reported back that the most suitable site for a town was just northwest of Knoxville, seat of Knox County. There followed the purchase of more than 10,000 acres of land at this site for some $15,000, the planning of an institution of higher learning to be called " Prairie College, " and the laying out of a town to be called " Galesburg " after the Reverend Mr. Gale.

Then followed, in 1836-1837 , the movement of the society's families westward to the Illinois prairie country. Some went overland in Conestoga wagons, others journeyed on the Erie Canal, while still others followed the Ohio, Mississippi and Illinois rivers. At first, the families occupied temporary cabins in the early settlement known as Log City, later called Henderson Grove. In the meantime, they went to work building their model town of Galesburg.

As circumstances have since shown, the Reverend Mr. Gale's town was one of the most important factors in the development of Knox County. Soon Knox and Lombard colleges were established there, and then came the first railroad in 1854 — another important event in the history of the county. Today, Galesburg is an agricultural and manufacturing city of 31,425 population and the chief trading center of a region with an estimated population of 123,000.

FOUNDING OF KNOX COLLEGE

As soon as Galesburg was built, work was started on the manual labor college conceived by the founder of the colony. It was chartered in 1837 and at first was called Knox Manual Labor College, but this was later simplified to its present name of Knox College. In addition to the Reverand Mr. Gale, its first board of trustees consisted of John Waters, John G. Sanburn, Matthew Chambers, Erastus Swift, Nehemiah H. Losey, George H. Wright, Parnach Owen, and Thomas Simmons.

When completed and opened in 1838, Knox College's first building, a crude frame edifice, served not only as a college hall but as a community preparatory school, church and town meeting place. It was limited only to male students who combined college work with manual labor. In 1870, however, women were admitted to the full college course. Galesburg's other pioneer college, Lombard, was absorbed by Knox in 1930. Today, Knox Collgee has an enrollment of 780 students.

A STEEL PLOW INVENTOR

If it is still a debatable question among historians as to who produced the first steel plow in Illinois, yet Harvey Henry May, of Galesburg, remains high on the list of those who might be eligible for that honor. It was as long ago as 1837, when the movement of settlers into the Illinois prairie country was at its peak, that Harvey H. May invented a steel, self-scouring plow that was especially adapted to turning over the rough, sticky prairie sod of the Midwest. About this time, too, John Deere produced a steel plow at Grand Detour, Illinois, and soon several others appeared in different parts of the state. Whether or not Henry H. May invented the first steel plow, his implement certainly played an important part in making Knox a leading agricultural county of Illinois.

LOMBARD COLLEGE

Another institution of higher learning that helped to gain for Galesburg the early title of " Athens of the Corn Belt " was Lombard College. It was founded by the Universalists in 1851. After being in existence for eighty years, it was absorbed by Knox College. Among its one-time students was Eugene Field, the " Children's Poet. " A later graduate of Lombard College is Quincy Wright, leading authority on international law and author of "A Study of War " and other books.

FIRST RAILROAD

One Sunday in 1854, we are told, Jonathan Blanchard, an early president of Knox College, carefully put on his black frock coat and walked out to a railroad track that had just been laid in Galesburg. On the track stood a new wood-burning locomotive with a diamond-shaped smokestack. As the engineer was about to climb into the locomotive cab, President Blanchard stepped forward, and, in a severe, moral New England tone, commanded that the locomotive be " put up " for the day and not used to profane the holy Sabbath. Whereupon the smoke-begrimed engineer replied: " You can go to hell and mind your own business. I'll take my train out as ordered. "

Many local historians point to this incident as being one of the most significent in the history of Knox County. For it symbolized the end of the strict, moral, religious atmosphere first brought to Galesburg by the Reverend Mr. Gale and his followers and a later influx of New Englanders and the beginning of a freer, more cosmopolitan, more democratic era that came with the arrival of the first railroad and the first industrial plants.

It is agreed by all local historians that the coming of the railroad to Galesburg in 1854 was of the greatest importance in the development of the city and county. After the railroad arrived, Galesburg quickly evolved into an industrial and shipping center. In 1850, four years before the Central Military Tract Railroad was built through Knox County, Galesburg had a population of 880; two years after the road was constructed, Galesburg's population jumped to 4,000.

It was in 1851 that the county's first " steam road, " the Central Military Tract Railroad, was organized at Galesburg. After George C. Lanphere secured a charter for the road from the Illinois state legislature, a local subsidy of $300,000 was raised by leading Galesburg citizens, among them being Chauncey Colton, a wealthy merchant. Planning to connect with several other roads which would give Galesburg direct access to Chicago, the Central Military Tract Railroad soon was under construction. It was completed in December, 1854, and at that time Galesburg, and Knox County, welcomed its first railroad train.

Two years later the Central Military Tract Railroad and several of its connecting roads were consolidated into the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. " The advent of the railroad, " says the Knox County volume of the Historical Records Survey, " brought population and prosperity to Galesburg. Farm products now could be shipped to Chicago and other markets, and conversely the town now became a distributing point for merchandise, farm machinery and other equipment. Knox College and other schools attracted students and visitors from all sections of the United States. "

Today, Galesburg is the largest division headquarters of the vast Burlington Railroad system. In the road's machine and repair shops, car factories, icing stations, coal chutes, hump switchyards and tie-treating plant at Galesburg are employed more than 2,300 persons. Another railroad serving Galesburg is the Santa Fe System. In addition to the Burlington shops, Galesburg now has some sixty other industrial plants

EUROPEAN ARRIVALS

When that Swedish communistic colony, Bishop Hill, located just north of Galesburg in Henry County, began to disintergrate in the 1850's following the murder of Erik Jansson, its founder, many of the colonists moved southward into Knox County and became farmers. One who helped in this movement was the Reverend Jonas Hedstrom, a Methodist clergyman who had emigrated from Sweden and become a resident of the village of Victoria in Knox County.

" Steady immigration from Sweden followed, " says the Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois and Knox County, " The Irish first appeared in force in 1854, as laborers on the railroad . . . For some time they remained content with this employment, but, little by little, they began to seek other outlets for their energy, many going to work upon farms....The first considerable European accession, however, was the Scotch settlement in the northeastern part of the county, chiefly in Copley. "

LINCOLN-DOUGLAS DEBATE

A unique historical landmark in Knox County is Old Main, most ancient of the buildings on the Galesburg campus of Knox College. It was here, on the raw windy afternoon of October 7, 1858, that Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas staged the fifth of their series of seven Great Debates durint the Illinois senatorial campaign of that year. Today, this old Knox College building is the only edifice associated with the Great Debates that is still standing.

MOTHER BICKERDYKE

With the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, Knox County supplied more than its quota of men and money to the Union cause. Of singular interest, however, was the war work done by Mary Ann Ball Bickerdyke, otherwise known to fame as Mother Bickerdyke. She became a second Florence Nightingale, visiting many Union camps and hospitals in her capacity as a nurse. On one occasion, Mother Bickerdyke returned to Knox County and, with the assistance of various women's organizations, gathered together 200 cows and 1,000 chickens. She then transported these to the Union Army at Memphis. Several years after her death in 1901 a statue in her honor was erected on the Knox County Courthouse grounds by the Mother Bickerdyke Memorial Association.

GALESBURG BECOMES COUNTY SEAT

As the population of Galesburg expanded rapidly during and after the Civil War, its citizens soon started a movement to have their city designated county seat. But this was strongly opposed by the citizens of Knoxville. After a " county seat war " of some years standing, however, Galesburg finally succeeded in becoming the county's seat of justice in 1874. It was largely through the efforts of W. Selden Gale, son of the city's founder, that Galesburg obtained this honor.

THIRD COURTHOUSE

In the downtown district of Galesburg today stands Knox County's third courthouse. It was completed in 1886 at a cost of $156,261. Situated at one end of the city's tree-shaded Public Square, the Knox County Courthouse is a three-story stone edifice surmounted by a corner clock tower; in general it follows the Gothic style of architecture. When Galesburg first became county seat in 1873 and until the completion of the present courthouse, the county maintained temporary headquarters in the Galesburg Opera House.

CARL SANDBURG BIRTHPLACE

Just twenty years after Abraham Lincoln engaged in one of his Great Debates with Senator Stephen A. Douglas on the campus of Knox College in Galesburg, there was born in a modest workman's cottage not far from the college campus a baby boy whose name was entered in the county birth records as Carl Sandburg. Today, as almost all of America knows, Carl Sandburg is one of this country's foremost poets and perhaps its greatest authority on the life of Abraham Lincoln.

In consequence of Carl Sandburg's present widespread fame as the author of a monumental six-volume biography of Lincoln and many other books in both prose and poetry, the plain little Galesburg cottage in which he was born on Janurary 6, 1878, has now become a literary shrine. At the time of his birth here Carl Sandburg's father, a Swedish immigrant who never learned to write English, was employed as a blacksmith in the smoky Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad shops at Galesburg.

It was mainly through the efforts of Mrs. Adda George, a former Galesburg school teacher, that the Sandburg birthplace, located at 311 East Third Street, was set aside as a literary landmark, restored, and opened to the public as a Sandburg and Lincoln museum. The cottage is now owned and maintained by the Carl Sandburg Association, organized, by Mrs. George and composed of Marshall Field III, Adlai E. Stevenson, Professor Quincy Wright and other prominent Americans of today.

COUNTY HISTORIC LANDMARKS

In addition to the Carl Sandburg birthplace and the Knox College building associated with a Lincoln-Douglas debate, the county has several other historic landmarks, most of them located in Knoxville, the county's first seat of justice. Here may be found the Old Courthouse, Hall of Records and Jail, all dating from the mid-nineteenth century.

These landmarks, during the 1930's when President Franklin D. Roosevelt was in office, were drawn to scale, photographed and recorded by staff architects of the northern Illinois unit of the Historic American Buildings Survey under the direction of Mr. Earl H. Reed, a prominent Chicago architect. When this work was completed, copies of the drawings and photographs were placed in the permanent keeping of the Library of Congress and the Burnham Architectural Library in the Art Institute at Chicago.

" WHO'S WHO " IN KNOX COUNTY

In the latest edition (1955) of that standard reference work, Who's Who in America, we find included the names of thirteen Knox County residents who have won national reputations in their respective fields. Most of them are educators on the faculty of Knox College. The list is headed by Sharvey G. Umbeck, who has been president of Knox College since 1949. Here, also, is Professor Charles H. Peake, college dean, and two outstanding professors of history, Hermann R. Muelder and Alfred W. Newcombe.

Other faculty members in Who's Who in America are Professor Charles J. Adamec of the classics department, Professor Arthur C. Walton of the biology department, Professor Procter F. Sherwin of the English department, Professor Merritt H. Moore of the philosophy department, Professor Clarence L Furrow of the biology department, and Professor Ira E. Neifert of the chemistry department.

Listed, also, are three Knox County residents not connected with the college. These are Rebecca L. Lowrie, publishing editor, writer and special contributor to the Saturday Review of Literature; Harold F. Nichols, president of the First Galesburg National Bank & Trust Company; and Louis Nielson, vice-president and director of the Beatrice Foods Company of Chicago and chairman of the board of the First Galesburg National Bank & Trust Company.

KNOX COUNTY TODAY

On the basis of the latest United States census figures, Knox County in 1950 had a total population of 54,366, which placed it 458th in population rank amoung the 3,103 counties of the United States. This was an increase of 4.0 per cent over its 1940 population. Its principal city and county seat, Galesburg, had a population of 31,425 —— an increase of 8.8 per cent over the city's 1940 figure.

Occupying a land area of 728 square miles, the county's density of population was 75 inhabitants per square mile. It had an urban population of 34,725 (dwellers in the cities of Galesburg and Abingdon), a rural non-farm population (residents of towns, villages and couttry places) of 10,202, and a rural farm population of 9,439. In 1950 there were 5,270 infants under five years of age in the county, 6,170 persons sixty-five years old and over, and the median age was given as 33.2 years. The county then contained 36,238 potential voters.

Under the heading of vital statistics, Knox County in 1950 had 1,139 births, 624 deaths (including 25 infants) and 577 marriages. The number of families (two or more persons related by marriage or blood) then was 14,830, and the median family income of all these families was given as $3,231.

More than 21 per cent had incomes of less than $2,000, while 18.3 per cent had incomes of $5,000 or more.

In the field of education, the county had a total of 8,450 young persons between the ages of seven and seventeen years (school age). Of the 5,440 between the ages of seven and thirteen (primary school age), 96.1 per cent were enrolled in primary schools, and of the 2, 535 between the ages of fourteen and seventeen (high school age), 90.9 were enrolled in high schools. The median number of school years completed for all persons in the county twenty-five years old and over was given as 10.7 years.

With reference to the county's labor force in 1950, the figures show there were more persons employed in manufacturing than in agriculture. The county then had a total potential labor force (persons fourteen years old and over) of 41,649, and of this total 21,357 were actually employed (79.6 per cent of whom were males and 24.3 per cent females). The largest number of those employed, 4,273, were engaged in retail and wholesale trade, and the next largest group, 3,839, were engaged in manufacturing. The total number of of workers in agriculture was 3,245. Then came transportation, communication and other public utilities, 3,153; professional and related services, 1,769; business and personal services, 1,217; construction, 1,081; finance, insurance and real estate, 492; and mining, 298. The labor figures were summed up by showing that 18.5 per cent of the total employed were engaged in manufacturing, while 15.6 were engaged in agriculture.

There were 17,581 dwelling units in Knox County in 1950 (in 1940 there were 15,980). The median number of rooms was given as 5.3, and 74.7 per cent were one-dwelling unity detached structures. More that 61 per cent had hot running water and private toilet and bath, 64.3 per cent were owner-occupied, 76.2 per cent had central heating, 89.1 per cent had mechanical refrigerators and 97.2 per cent had radios. The total number of non-farm dwelling units (in cities, towns, and villages) was 14,737, and the median values of these was given as $6,530. The median gross rental in renter-occupied houses was given as $1,453.

In 1948, when the last United States business census was taken, there were 696 retail stores in Knox County and these grossed a total of $58,835,000 in sales. The largest group, 176, were food stores, which grossed $12,544,000 in sales, and next largest, 133, were eating and drinking places, which grossed $4,435,000. There were 93 wholesale establishments and these grossed $46,567,000.

Of the county's manufacturing establishments, there were 62 in 1948 which employed 4,376 persons and which manufactured goods and materials in the amounty of $21,943,000.

On the subject of agriculture, Knox County in 1950 had a total of 2,385 farms, of which 2,126 were classified as commercial farms. More than 41.7 per cent of all farms were operated by tenants. The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was given as $33,934. In 1949, four years after the close of World War II, the value of all farm products (crops, livestock, poultry, and dairy products) sold in Knox County was $20,426.000. Farm expenditures in that year amounted to $2,596 000 for livestock and poultry feed and $973,000 for hired labor.

Total bank deposits (individuals, partnerships, corporations) in the county in 1950 amounted to $46,895,000. Total capital in the county's three savings and loan associations amounted to $15,434,000 in savings and $14,314,000 in first mortgage loans outstanding.

CITY OF GALESBURG

Beginning more than a hundred years ago as a sedate, New England-like college town, Galesburg city is now an important industrial and trading center of the western Illinois countryside. It is the county seat and principal city of Knox County and in 1950 had a total population of 31,425 —— an increase of 8.8 per cent over its 1940 figure. It is also the chief trading center of a region with an estimated population of 123,000.

Still in existence here is historic Knox College, founded by the Reverend George W. Gale a few years after he platted the town of Galesburg in 1836-1837. After the arrival of the first railroad in 1854, Galesburg quickly emerged into an industrial and shipping center, a development that was further accelerated when the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad built its shops and established its largest division headquarters in the city.

Galesburg is located 163 miles southwest of Chicago in the midst of a level, fertile, agricultural region noted for its corn and soybean crops and its beef cows and hogs. In addition to the Burlington, the city is served by the Santa Fe Railroad and by US highways 150 and 34 and State 41. Here also, is Galesburg Municipal Airport, principal landing field of Knox County.

ABINGDON

South of Galesburg, at the junction of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Minneapolis & St. Louis railroads, lies Abingdon, second largest city in Knox County. It has a total population of 3,300. In addition to numerous retail stores and service establishments, the city has its own postoffice and banking facilities. Through it passes US 41.

Abingdon is one of the oldest communities in Knox County. It was platted in 1836 by A. D. Swartz, an early settler who first arrived in the county in 1829. He named it after the town of his birth in Maryland. It is said that Mrs. Swartz, whose maiden name was Carroll, was related to Maryland colonial leader, Charles Carroll of Carrollton, one of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence.

An early educational institution in Abingdon was Abingdon College. founded in 1855 by P. H. Murphy. It was later moved to Eureka, Illinois. Another early school here was Hedding College, chartered in 1857 and named after Bishop Hedding of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Abingdon city lies mainly in Cedar Township, which has a total population of 3,034.

HERMON

Laid out in 1842 by Archibald Long, early settler, the village of Hermon today has a population of sixty-six. It is located on the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad and not far from Hermon Creek. When first founded, the village was called Harrisonville, but in 1848 its name was changed to Hermon when a postoffice was established here.

Hermon is the principal community of Chestnut Township, with a total population of 560. Earliest settler of the township was Anthon Dolph, who arrived in 1833. Next came John Terry, who became a justice of the peace. He once performed a marriage by standing on the bank of the Spoon River and shouting the ceremony across to a couple on the opposite bank, it being impossible for either party to cross in a boat because of high spring floodwaters.

LONDON MILLS

Part of the village of London Mills, which lies mainly in adjacent Fulton County, is situated in Chestnut Township. This part numbers twenty-three inhabitants. Total population of the village is 581. Through it runs the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad and State 116.

VICTORIA

Main part of the incorporated village of Victoria, with a total population of 469, lies in Victoria Township, located on the eastern border of Knox County. A smaller portion, numbering 140 inhabitants, is situated in adjoining Copley Township. The village is served by the Galesburg & Great Eastern Railroad and by State 167.

Victoria village was platted in 1849 around an early wayside inn conducted by George F. Reynolds. An impetus to its growth came when the Galesburg & Great Eastern Railroad was built through the village in 1899. Victoria is the only community in Victoria Township, which has a total population of 805. The township was settled as early as 1835.

ETHERLEY

Another community in Copley Township is the hamlet of Etherly, which has a population of sixteen. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Victoria. The hamlet was laid out in 1894 by Samuel L. Charles, an early settler.

GILSON

A white grain elevator rising above its tree-lined streets, Gilson village is located in the fertile farming area just southeast of Knoxville. In 1950 it had a population of 169. It is served by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and by state highways 8 and 97. The village was founded in 1857 by James Gilson and Linneus Richmond, early settlers.

Gilson is the only community in Haw Creek Township, which has a total population of 649. First to arrive in the township was Mrs. Elizabeth Gillmore Owen, a widow, who came with her son and daughters in 1829. Her son, Parnach Owen, became an early surveyor of Knox County. The first sermon in the township was preached by the Reverend Peter Cartwright, pioneer circuit-riding minister.

HENDERSON

Oldest community in Knox County is the village of Henderson, located just north of Galesburg. Its population today is 166. The village is situated on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and alongside the tracks here rise several tall grain elevators. It was in 1828 that the earliest settlers of Knox County came to live in this region, finding here a plentiful supply of trees for the building of log cabins. At first this settlement was called Log City. The village of Henderson was laid out in 1835. Today, it is the principal community of Henderson Township, which has a population of 941.

SOPERVILLE

Also in Henderson Township is the hamlet of Soperville, located just west of Henderson. South of it lies Lake Storey, one of several lakes in Knox County.

ABINGDON

About one-third of the city of Abingdon lies in Indian Point Township, its main portion being in adjacent Cedar Township. For a description of the city, the reader is referred to the chapter on Cedar Township. That part of Abingdon in Indian Point Township has a population of 1,098. The total population of the township is 1,848. It was in 1829 that Azel Dorsey arrived and became the first settler of the township. He only remained a few years however, and when John B. Latimer arrived in 1834 he became the township's first permanent settler.

ST. AUGUSTINE

Another community in Indian Point Township is St. Augustine village, with a population of 198. A white grain elevator rises above the tracks here of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, and through the village runs State 41. St. Augustine was laid out in 1854 by E. T. Byram after the railroad was built through the region.

KNOXVILLE

Original seat of justice of Knox County and now that county's third largest city is Knoxville, located just southeast of Galesburg. Its population today is 2,209. The city is served by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and by US 150 and State 97. Here are located a number of historic landmarks dating from early Knox County days and recently drawn by staff architects of the Historic American Buildings Survey.

Knoxville was platted in 1831 when its site was selected as the county's first seat of justice. In the beginning it was called Henderson, but this was changed to Knoxville a year or two later. Today, the city is one of two communities in Knox Township, which has a total population of 3,426.

EAST GALESBURG

The other community in Knox Township is the incorporated village of East Galesburg, which, as its name implies is located adjacent to Galesburg city. It has a population of 651 and is largely a residential community. The Santa Fe Railroad runs through the village. Between it and Galesburg city lies Rice Lake, another of the several county lakes.

ONTARIO

Another community in Ontario Township is the small hamlet of Ontario, located west of Oneida. It is served by the postoffice at Oneida. The hamlet is situated in the midst of a level, fertile farming region.

ONEIDA

It was a little over a hundred years ago that Oneida city was founded by C. F. Camp, B. S. West and S. V. R. Holmes, all early settlers of the county. First settler of the township in which it is located, however, was Alexander Williams, who came in 1833. Another arrival that year was George W. Melton. Oneida city was platted in 1854 when the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad was built through the area. Today, it has a population of 554. It is the principal community of Ontario Township, which has a total population of 1,041.

DE LONG

With a population of 125, the village of De Long sits quietly among the widespread farms of the region just south of Knoxville. In summer its trim white houses are shaded by rows of elms, maples, and other trees. The village was founded late in the nineteenth century by H. S. Mallory, who also built a narrow guage railroad in the area. De Long is the only community in Orange Township, which has a total population of 636. First settler of the township was Joseph Walsh, who came with his family in the early 1830's. One who arrived soon afterwards was Asa Haynes, later to become prominent in Knox County public affairs.

DAHINDA

The village of Dahinda, with a present population of 200, was laid out in 1888 after the Santa Fe Railroad was built through this part of the county. It is located on the historic Spoon River, a stream made famous by Edgar Lee Master's classic Spoon River Anthology Dahinda is the principal community in Persifer Township, which has a total population of 724. First settler of the township was William Norris, who arrived in 1832. Soon afterwards came John Persifer, after whom the township is named.

APPLETON

About three miles west of Dahinda lies the small hamlet of Appleton, with a present population of fifty. It is served by the Dahinda postoffice. Appleton was platted at the same time as Dahinda.

RIO

When the village of Rio was first platted in 1871 by William Robinson, it was called Coeberg in honor of the Coe brothers, Louis and Nelson, early settlers of the area. Later the village's name was changed to Rio, a shortened form for Rio Grande River. Today, the village has a population of 200. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and lies just west of US 150. Rio is the only community in Rio Township, which has a total population of 740. Among the earliest settlers of the township were Joseph Roe, Reece Jones and Joseph Halli d a y.

YATES CITY

In the southeast corner of Knox County lies the incorporated village of Yates City, with a present population of 623. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 8. In addition to numerous retail stores and service establishments, the village has a post-office, banking facilities and a Railway Express Agency office. Yates City was platted in 1857 by Amos C. Babcock, William Babcock and James Burson. It was named after Yates County, New York, where the Babcocks were born and reared. Yates City is the principal community in Salem Township, which has a total population of 1,281. First settler of the township was Alexander Taylor, who came in 1834.834.

DOUGLAS

Another community in Salem Township is the small village of Douglas with a population of 125. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and lies just north of State 8. Originally called Summit, Douglas village was laid out in 1856 by W. G. Ware, an early settler.

WILLIAMSFIELD

In the Spoon River Country at the eastern edge of Knox County may be found the incorporated village of Williamsfield, with a population of 542. It is located on the Santa Fe Railroad and on State 180. The village was laid out in 1888 by E. P. Percell. It is the principal community in Truro Township, the population of which is 1,045. The first settler of the township was John Dill, who arrived in 1832.

TRURO

Another community in Truro Township is the small hamlet of Truro, located north of Williamsfield. It is served by the postoffice at Williamsfield. Near the hamlet meanders Caldwell Creek.

ALTONA

One of the older incorporated villages of the county is Altona, located northeast of Galesburg city on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on US 34. With a present population of 462, the village has a number of retail stores, service establishments, postoffice and a Railway Express Agency branch. Altona was platted in 1834 by John Piatt for the heirs of John Thompson, first settler of the township in which Altona is located, Walnut Grove Township. This township has a present population of 928.

THE ILLINOIS STATE FLAG

STATE FLAG OF ILLINOIS

Illinois' State Flag was officially adopted on July 6, 1915, after a vigorous campaign by Mrs. Ella Park Lawrence, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Early in 1912, Mrs. Lawrence began visiting local D. A. R. chapters throughout Illinois seeking cooperation in promoting selection of an official State banner to place in the Continental Memorial Hall in Washington, D. C. In 1913, Mrs. Lawrence offered a prize of $25.00 to the Illinois D. A. R. chapter submitting the best design for the banner. She also wrote to members of the General Assembly seeking their cooperation.

Four judges were then selected to choose the winning design. Thirty-five designs were submitted and the Rockford Chapter entry was chosen as Illinois' future emblem.

State Senator Raymond D. Meeker introduced the bill which was to legalize the flag. After passage in the Senate it was pushed through the House of Representatives, despite an overcrowded calendar.

The measure automatically became a law July 6, 1915, when the Governor failed to affix his signature to the bill.

The first official flag, made in Washington, D. C., was three by five feet in size, of white silk. Flags were given by Mrs. Lawrence to Secretary of State; Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (to hang in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C.); Rebecca Parke Chapter, Galesburg and the Illinois State Historical Society.

Visitors to Springfield cannot fail to notice the State Banner flanking the Stars and Stripes in the Rotunda at the State House. In the same juxtaposition it appears in the office of the Secretary of State. It is flown on ceremonial days by numerous patriotic bodies throughout the State. For officials and the public alike it stands as a reminder of our greatness as a State and our pride in our membership in the United States of America.

To estimate the number of plants required for an acre at any given distance, multiply the distance between the rows by the distance between the plants, which will give the number of square feet allotted to each plant and divide the number of square feet in an acre (43,560) by this number. The quotient will be the number of plants required.

GRAIN MEASURE.

To find the capacity of a Bin or Wagon-bed; multiply the cubic feet by 8 (tenths). For great accuracy, add ⅓ of a bushel for every 100 cubic feet.

To find the cubic ft., multiply the length, width and depth together.

Find the capacity of a Bin 4 ft. wide, 5 ft. deep, and 15 ft. long.

To get the exact answer 1 bu. is added for the 300 cubic ft.

4x5x15 = 300 cubic ft.

240 + 1 = 241 bus. exact ans.

How many bus. will a Wagon-bed hold, 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide, 18 in. or 1½ ft. deep?

☞ A Bed 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide will hold 2 bu. for every in. in depth.

1½x3x10 = 45 cubic feet

Ans. 36.0 bus.

EAR CORN MEASURE.

To find the contents of a Corn crib; multiply the cubic feet by 4 and divide the product by 9*.

Find the contents of a Corn crib 18 ft. long, 7 ft. wide and 8 ft. high.

*NOTE—This allows 2¼ cubic ft. for a bu. It is the rule most generally used, and will hold out in ordinary good corn, even if measured at the time it is cribbed.

7x8x18 = 1008 cubic feet

TWO SIMPLE RULES FOR FINDING THE CAPACITY OF ROUND BINS, IN BUSHELS.

Where the dimensions measure exactly in feet; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .63.

Where the dimensions measure in inches; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .000365.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED ON THE FLOOR IN THE FORM OF A CONE.

Square the depth and square the slant height, in inches. Take their difference and multiply by the depth, in inches. Multiply this product by .00048. The result will be the contents, in bushels.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED AGAINST A STRAIGHT WALL.

Square one-half of the depth and proceed as in the previous rule.

"DON'TS" IN THE USE OF THE FLAG

The conference called at Washington in June, 1923, to draw up a code covering proper civil usage of the flag, adopted the following list of things to avoid:

1. Do not dip the flag of the United States to any person or any thing. The regimental color, State flag, organization or institutional flag, will render this honor. At sea the flag may be dipped in acknowledgment of the salute of the flag of another nation.
2. Do not display the flag of the United States with the Union down except as a signal of distress.
3. Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the flag.
4. Do not let the flag of the United States touch the ground or tail in the water.
5. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States.
6. Do not use the flag as drapery.
7. Do not fasten the flag in such manner as will permit it to be easily torn.
8. Do not drape the flag over the top or sides of a vehicle, train or boat.
9. Do not use the flag to drape over front of a platform or over chairs or benches.
10. Do not display the flag on a float in a parade except on a staff.
11. Do not use the flag as a ceiling covering.
12. Do not use the flag of the United States as a portion of a costume.
13. Do not put lettering upon the flag.
14. Do not use the flag in any advertising.
15. Do not use the flag in such a manner as to cause it to be soiled or damaged.
